MRS. HENDERSON

IS DEAD.

Lovely Woman Dies At The Home
Of Her Daughter In Irvington Friday Morning.

SURVIVED BY FOUR CHILDREN.

On Friday morning, near the noon hour, Mrs. Nannie Henderson, widow of Mr. Peyton Henderson, quietly breathed her last. She had been very frail since she suffered a stroke of paralysis about two years ago, but she was not confined to her bed except on an occasion of unusual exhaustion or brief suffering.

She had been cheerful and engaged in bright conversation with friends and loved ones on Tuesday afternoon, so that her going away was unexpected.

She was greatly beloved for her rare sweetness of character and her keen intelligence. She was a New England woman, bred in Vermont and came to Kentucky many years ago with two sisters. She was a teacher of great ability who loved her work. During her last days the past winter she has taken great delight in teaching her little granddaughter. The child's progress was a source of much pleasure to her. She was in her seventy-third year. She had made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Nora Board, for some years.

Her surviving children are Ernest Henderson, Mrs. Nora Board, Irvington; Mrs. Hugh Conley, Birmingham, Ala.; and Mr. Richard Henderson, of Boston.

SIMPLE.

Directions To Prepare Simple, Yet Remarkable Home Mixture.

A well-known authority on Rheumatism gives the following valuable, though simple and harmless, prescription, which any one can easily prepare at home:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargan, one ounce; Compound Syrup Saraparilla, three ounces.

Mix by shaking well in a bottle, and take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

He states that the ingredients can be obtained from any good prescription druggist at small cost, and, in case of vegetable extraction, are harmless to take.

This pleasant mixture, if taken regularly for a few days, is said to overcome almost any case of Rheumatism. The pain and swelling, if any diminishes with each dose, until permanent results are obtained, and without injuring the stomach. While there are many so-called Rheumatism remedies, patent medicines, etc., some of which do give relief, few really give permanent results, and the above will, no doubt, be greatly appreciated by our sufferers at this time.

In view of the desire of this neighborhood to elicit the information that these drugs are harmless and can be bought separately, or the druggists in town will furnish the prescription for our readers if asked to.

STEPHENSOPORT.

Ask your grocer for BEST flour. Rev. F. H. Roberts conducted the funeral of John Agnew Thursday. Mr. Agnew was eighty-five years of age. His remains were laid to rest in the Agnew cemetery near his old home.

There is still quite a lot of sickness in town.

Daily Beard, of Hardsburg, was in town Saturday.

Taking A Vacation.

Miss A. Louise Babbage is at home from the News office for a several weeks vacation. Please telephone your news items to the office or give them to Mr. Louie Ditzbach, the local reporter.

Model Citizen And Good Officer.

In answering Hon. Jas. R. Higdon, a candidate for re-election to the office of County Attorney, he can very heartily say that he has at all times guarded the very best interests of the county and thrown all of his vim and ability into the prosecution of the evil doers. Certainly he is better equipped now to fill the place than he ever was before. No man can say that he has not been vigilant and attentive to business. No one will urge that he is not deserving. He is a model citizen and a good officer, and if re-elected he will continue in his post with the same fidelity that has characterized his tenure of office.

Hancock Clarion.

Tobacco Sales.

J. W. Keys, Lodging, sold 3 lbs. dark tobacco in Louisville last week at $4.30, $4.85, $5.85 and $5.95. Mr. Keys had good tobacco but he missed it, he says, in not selling early.

STOMACH DISTRESS.

And A Misery From Indigestion Vanishes Five Minutes Later.

Every family here ought to keep one of these Diaprepia in the house, as any one of us may have an attack of indigestion or stomach trouble at any time, day or night.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lay like a lump of lead on your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Ask your Pharmacist for a 50 cent case of Page's Diaprepia, and take one triangulum after supper tonight. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or bad feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitated, flatulencies, Dizzies, intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Page's Diaprepia is a certain cure for all stomach misery, because it will take hold of your food and digest it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Actual, prompt relief for all your stomach misery is at your Pharmacist, waiting for you.

These large 50 cent cases contain more than sufficient to cure a case of Dyspepsia or Indigestion.

Ask your grocer for BEST flour. Dr. Milton Board was here Thursday to see his father.

Rev. E. B. English left last week for his new home in Owemboro, where his pastoral duties now call him. Mrs. English and her mother left yesterday to join him. In their going Hardsburg loses three of her best citizens.

George Evans left last week for Mississippi where he expects to locate. His family will remain here for a few weeks.

Mrs. Amelia Squires and Mrs. Judith DeJarnette went to Louisville Monday.

Mrs. J. E. Kincheloe delightedly entertained Friday afternoon in his home for Mrs. Wick Dehaven, of Cloverport.

Mrs. Anna Eskridge, of Louisville, is the guest of Mrs. John P. Haswell.

Mrs. Walter Ward, of Louisville, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam McGary.

The Town Council Friday night voted to give street lights a semi-annual subscription. This insures lighting, as considerable is always surrendered.

Passion week services will be held next week with alternating preaching by Revs. Cline and Mather. Services the first three evenings will be held at the M. E. Church South, and on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings at the M. E. church.

The big store proposition failed to materialize and the agitation for it has ceased.

Beard's opening Friday was the finest they have ever had, the largest line of goods ever offered, and the display seemed to clothe the store and permeate the atmosphere. In a beautiful be-ribboned canopy Mrs. Morris Beard sat giving to each lady a carnation, thus adding to the beauty of the scene and to the delight of the admiring throng.

Mrs. Clark, wife of Mr. Clark, managing Clerk in Beard's store, arrived to make her home in Hardinsburg.

CHAPTER XIV. WHEN A DAUGHTER BETRAYS HER FATHER.

BUD returned to find Miss Langdon and Norton still in the room, the former looking pale and the latter, thinned by his woes. He would give this congressman the battle of his life for this prize, of that he was confident.

"I have an engagement with Mrs. Hildes, Senator Peabody's wife," she said, "and I must hurry away. I expect to see her to see father."

"I think I'll just wait," suggested Norton. "I have the senator as soon as possible, and he ought to return from that way and means committee meeting pretty soon."

When Carolina had gone a slight feeling of constraint settled over the two.

"The senator's pretty busy these days with his naval matter coming up, isn't he?"

"He's pretty busy receiving delegations from Alatocca and Gulf City and putting them both on the back," said Haines. "Had a man from Gulf City in this morning with some pretty strong arguments."

Carolina was sure of his man now. "Well, I am in touch with some people who've got funds and options on more. I might fit it for you to come to see him tomorrow."

"You know something of Alatocca, then," Norton said, "and Robert, thinnings with suppressed excitement. He is the last thing I wanted close to him, but he's come."

Norton was sure of his man now. "Well, I am in touch with some people who've got funds and options on more. I might fit it for you to come to see him tomorrow."

"You know I haven't much money, Norton. All I could put in would be my influence. Who are these people? Are they cheap little urchins or are they real people here who have some power and can do something that is worth while?"

"Do I look like I'd fool with cheap haines? Haines? They're the real people. I think, Haines, that either Senator Stevens or Senator Peabody would advise you that you are safe."

"Well, I am in touch with some people who've got funds and options on more. I might fit it for you to come to see him tomorrow."

"That's right," agreed Haines. "Are you absolutely sure?"

Norton started. "Why, you don't mean to tell me," he exclaimed, "that Senator Langdon wants to go to Gulf City for the naval base?"

"I don't mean to tell you anything, congressman," was the cool rejoinder. "It's not my business. The senator's the one who does the talking."

An ugly sneer wrinkled the congressman's face.

"Well, I'm glad he attends to his own business and doesn't trust too many people," he said pointedly.

"The senator doesn't trust too many people. If he did, there might be too much money made out of land speculation. Senator Langdon doesn't happen to be one of those senators who care for one of those things."

"I mean you think you're pretty strong with the senator," ventured the Mississippi.

"Tell you the truth, I haven't thought very much about it," replied Haines, "but I'm going to do it. I am sure you're strong at it."

"You are sure you're influenced him in the naval base business, then?"

The secretary smiled, keeping his temper under the adroit attack. "I mean you think you're pretty strong with the senator," ventured the Mississippi.

BEARD BROS'. BREEDING STOCK

HARDINSBURG, KENTUCKY

In offering to the public our breeding stock for 1909 we can say that never before have we been able to offer our patrons such advantages as we can this time. We purchased Highland Glenworth last season and he is recognized as one of the purest bred stallions in America. It requires a large investment to bring such as this to our county and we feel that the farmers should show their appreciation of our efforts to improve the stock of our county by their liberal patronage. Our service fees are the smallest for this class of stock ever offered to the people. Your careful consideration of our claim on your patronage will be highly appreciated.

HIGHLAND GLENWORTH

American Saddle Horse Breeder's Association, No. 3196.

For Highland Glenworth we have only to say that he is the highest styled, truest acting, finest finished and richest bred saddle stallion money would buy. Horsemen familiar with Highland Denmark, Monte Christo, Black Squirrel and Chester Dare, know that each was the champion of the ring and also of the stud each in his day. No other stallion, living or dead, can claim all these great horses for lineal sires, and Highland Glenworth's dam, grand dam and great grand dam were all noted mares—productions from mating by the shrewdest horsemen ever known to Kentucky. It is no surprise that Highland Glenworth is one of the leading sires of the country, as nothing but the hottest blood courses his veins and no cold crosses anywhere in his pedigree to crop out in a colt.

PEDIGREE:

Highland Glenworth is a blood bay stallion, 16 hands high, black points, foaled 1902, sired by Highland Denmark 730, by Black Squirrel 55, by Black Eagle 74 out of Mollie; Black Eagle was by King William 67 out of Kitty Richards; Mollie was by Giltner's Highlander out of Bettie. Highland Denmark 730 was out of Miss Gray, by Dave Akin 775, by Richmond out of daughter of Wagner, Jr. First dam, Annette Lee 1385, by Black Squirrel 55, second dam Nancy Lee 476, by Monte Christo 59, by Montrose 106 out of Fannie Giltner 59, third dam Nannie Garret 472, by Dave Akin 775, fourth dam Nannie.

We want to farm a few of the best mares in Breckinridge county to breed to Highland Glenworth and will be glad to negotiate with owners of high-class brood mares. See us as soon as possible. SEASON FEE $20, to insure living colt. Will also make stand at same time and place as Sporting Boy and Jack John.

should be studied by every parent. If your child is nervous, fretful, starts in its sleep, is pale faced, has rings under its eyes, always seems hungry, is not gaining weight, you can be sure the trouble is worms. White's Cream Vermifuge is an absolute cure for worms. It is own purgative.—Sold by A. R. Fisher.

Reasons For Cannibalism.

According to a writer in a French review, there are three reasons for cannibalism. It is either to satisfy the appetite, pleasure or fashion.

Twenty per cent of the cannibals, we learn, eat their dead to honor them. The ancient Tibetans belonged to this class. This is sentimental anthropophagy. Nineteen per cent eat their dead to satisfy their courage. This is decided egotistic anthropophagy.

Twenty-nine per cent eat human flesh to punish their enemies and 32 per cent because it is the fashion or because they consider the flesh savory.—Indianapolis News.

The best known pills and the best pills made are Dr. W. Little's Early Riser. They are small, easy to take, gentle and certain, and sold by All Druggists.

Time to Go.

"I wonder how many of those connected with newspapers," said a reporter, "remember the famous dispatcher sent by a press telegraph operator at the time of the San Francisco earthquake. It was the only emergency in the whole world that caused me to run to the lines. It read something like this: 'The building is beginning to rock, bricks are falling about, and it's me for the simple life.' Then it trailed off as if the operator had secured for the open door, or wall, perhaps. This is the only time I have ever seen in the paper offices and made all the boys laugh in spite of the serious picture it called to mind.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Contractor.

DONALDSONVILLE, Ga., Jan. 30, 1909.

Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghampton, N. Y.

Gentlemen—About four years ago I suffered from Kidney trouble and rheumatism in my hips. The pain across my back became so severe that I could hardly straighten up and could not walk without dragging my feet. I would urinate frequently and would have to rise two or three times during the night, causing me to suffer from loss of sleep. And with the pain I was all run down and begin to lose flesh. I saw Swamp Root advertised and bought one bottle of it. After taking it I felt better and could sleep all night at night. I continued to take it until I had taken four large bottles. I was entirely free from pain in the back and began to gain in weight. I always recommend Swamp Root to my friends as I think the cure in my case remarkable.

Yours very truly,

CLOVERPORT, KY., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 31, 1909

We, herewith, publish in full Judge Moorman's proclamation to observe Arbor Day. May every man, woman and child either plant a tree Friday or encourage some one else to.

A Proclamation

OBSERVE ARBOR DAY.

TO THE PEOPLE OF BRECKENRIDGE COUNTY:

Our Governor, by proclamation, has fixed upon Friday, April 2, 1909, as Arbor Day for Kentucky. While, primarily, Arbor Day was set apart for the planting of trees, the results of its observations has shown it to be, in many ways, an occasion which demands consideration at the hands of every enlightened community. It now means, or can mean, the annual day for cleaning and beautifying each home in each community of all of the states of the Union. The home and the school are the places where men are made. Home is the basis of Society, Law and Government. Clean homes and wholesome environments tend to make clean men and clean government.

Ours is a good country; ours is a good people. Nature has been kind to us, but there are too many homes, too many school houses, too many churches, too many roads and too many streets without trees and flowers and there are other evidences of a general lack of appreciation of the little things which produce beauty and happiness and cheerful environment. Let us have one real Arbor Day. Remove the unsightly and unclean. Instead of weeds and bushes, we had as well have our yards, trees, flowers and blue grass. You strive for years to hoard for others, why not make beautiful and comfortable the present surroundings? It enhances property values.

Trusting that this may remind many of their duty to themselves, to their neighbors and to those who will follow, I am,

Yours truly,

II. DEH. MOORMAN.

Judge Breckinridge County, Ky.

TO PATRONS AND CHILDREN:

I heartily endorse the sentiment and appreciate the value of Judge Moorman's appeal for an observation of Arbor day. In each district where school is now in session, I urge that the teacher and patrons encourage the proper planting of trees and that they assist the children. Where no school is in session, it is the duty of the patrons, led by the Trustee, I am,

Very truly,

JOEL H. PILE.

Superintendent of Schools, B. C.

THE VANISHED DAYS.

Published by request of R. P. Cloverport, Ky.

Lay the jest about the Tulip in the camphor balls at last,
For the miracle has happened and the olden days are past;
That which makes Milwaukee thirty does not foam in Tennessee,
And the old Missouri is as tight locked as ever.
Oh, the comic paper Colonel and his cronies will may sigh,
For the mint is waving gaily, but the South is going dry.

By the stillness on the hillside, in Kentucky all is silent,
For the only damp refreshment must be dipped up from the rill.
N'oth' C'line's stately ruler gives his soda glass a shove,
And discusses local option with the So' th' C'line Gov.;
It is useless at the fountain to be winks-ful of the eye;
For the cocktail glass is dusty, and the South is going dry.

It is water, water everywhere, and not a drop to drink.
We no longer hear the music of the mellow crystal clink,
When the Colonel and the Major and the General and the Judge Meet to have a little nip to give their appetites an edge;
For the eggning now is noggess and the rye has gone awry,

And the Punch Bowl holds Carnations, and the South is going dry.

All the nightcapes now have tassels and are worn upon the head,
Not the nightcapes that were taken when nobody went to bed;
And the braces above the bluegrass is as solenum as death,

For the water-wagon rumbles through its silver-tinted clover-lane on the Southland on its trip.

And it helps no one to drop off to pick up the driver's whip;
For the mint bed makes a pasture and
the corkscrew bentge high,
And is still along the Stillside and the South is going dry.

Lay the jest about the Tulip 'neath the Cherry tree last year,
For the water is but one kind of Moonshine and the olden days are past;
For the Water-Wagon rumbles through the Mouthland on its trip.

And it helps no one to drop off to pick
up the driver's whip;

For the mint bed makes a pasture and
the corkscrew bentge high,
And is still along the Stillside and the South is going dry.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors "prescribed" it a local remedy, and by constantly tutting to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven it to be a local remedy. The "F. J. Pile Health Care," manufactured by F. J. Pile & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally doses from one to ten tablets. It is the only one on the planest and most uniform surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circular and testimonials.

JASPER HEAD

A moral, model young man, one who has the confidence of everyone who knows him, is Jasper Head, son of Wm.
N. Head, of Louisville.

Mr. Head is young, handsome as a picture, and is the best boy in the excellent picture which we publish.

He has taught two schools in his home neighborhood, pleasing his parents and evidencing the qualities of a teacher who will wear well and teach so as to prepare boys and girls for real life.

The teaching force of the county will lose Mr. Head from its ranks, as he contemplates going into business. He is now pursuing a business course at Bowling Green in Prof. Dicken's school.

Helen Taft Has Traveled Far.

For one of her age Helen Taft is a very traveled young woman. She has made four trips across the Pacific and circled the globe once, accompanying her parents on their famous trip around the world. She speaks French and Spanish, as well as the native tongue of the Philippines. The President's daughter is as old-fashioned a girl in some ways as she is up-to-date in others. She has been taught not only to "sit on a cushion and sew a fine seam," but to cut and make her own dresses; and can even trim a hat at a pinch, and also knows how to cook and manage a house. Mrs. Taft has always been insistent on her daughter having a domestic as well as a social and mental equipment for life. The Tafts are not rich people by any means, and the new President's wife believes that the domestic arts are as much a part of a young girl's education as the knowledge of Greek roots or drawing room etiquette.

SOME INDIAN WARRIORS
MY
"SHADOW'S END"
BY BUFFALO BILL
FROM TRUE TALES OF THE PLAINS

COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY WILLIAM F. CORY

After the Custer massacre General Miles was left in command on the Yellowstone and erected huts for his troops and stores, which were brought up the Missouri by teams. He built trading posts on the Tongue river and one on the Yellowstone near where is now the city of Glendive. As soon as these were completed, instead of waiting for spring and summer, he immediately planned to keep up activity against the Redfeet.

The Indians greatly annoyed him by surprise attacks and on one occasion he again had to return on account of the strength of the Indians. This roused the general's ire, and instead of the demoralized Indians he equipped it with soldiers as such and fighting men to accompany them. Sitting Bull himself notified Colonel Otis that he must not travel that way, and Miles got after old Bull and overtook him at Cedar Creek, where he had left a trail of smoke, as he wished to pass winter comfortably and wanted permission to hunt and trade on condition that he did not attack the soldiers. But Miles would not temporize. He sent word that there was only one peace, and that was by subduing the Indians. In this fashion he left many of his soldiers in the field while he never failed to do, and continued a hot pursuit for over forty miles, compelling them to abandon food, ledge poles, camp equipage and ponies. Eventually 400 lodges and 8,000 Indians surrendered and were sent to their agencies.

After the Indians had hostile forces left the main body and escaped northward, where they were joined by Geronimo and some other chiefs. This bitter experience was an astonishment to Sitting Bull and the Sioux, so that it left that section free from their immediate dependence. The Indians had crossed the Tongue river just and a short rest by a determined commander made up an expedition to follow Sitting Bull's trail northward, although it was cold, erated by deep snow and the winter had opened with great severity. Soon the Indians had to give up the chase, as their food was but a short distance from the camp, while he and 2,000 of his warriors surrendered at the Red Cloud and Spotted Tail agencies, and 500 Cheyenne under White Bull, Two Moons and Hump surrendered at the Tongue river post.

Crazy Horse fretted under the restraint of Camp Robinson, and, informed of the Indians' desire to leave the agency with some of the worst of the disaffected, it was thought best to arrest him. This brought about a fight, in which he was mortally wounded and died, smiting defiantly the white man.

The Cheyenne who surrendered to Miles were treated by him in such a manner as to indicate that he obviously gained their affection and from among them enlisted a corps, like the old Pioneers on the Platte, as scouts.

Miles' winter campaign, in short, was effective. The next day found him to be the most popular general in the country, and his influence was intense. A month afterward Frank Baldwin and the troops under Miles overtook and hammered old Bull on two occasions and made it so warm for him in such a cold climate that he took refuge over the Canadian border. General Miles even made application for permission from the two governments to follow him to a finish, but for some reason the higher authorities did not permit it. Sitting Bull's influence had always been ably seconded by Gull as a fighter, and here he came to my aid, and the "knows" recommended Gull as one of the bravest and greatest of fighting men that history has produced, white or red. On one occasion, in a fight with the troops, he was shot down and rolled over by the cavalry, and it is stated that an infantry soldier, in the spirit of the Indian, who had come to assure his death, drove his bayonet clean through his body and left it there, actually pinning him to the ground. His death seemed assured. Afterward a rainstorm came up, which relieved him, and he eventually crawled off to the cover and lived to record the amazing line in the Custer and Reno fight. Years after I saw the evidence of the wound in his stomach.

This time it is not my purpose to write of "Buffalo Bill" but for him another whom I've not yet named. That Indian was Charles King, of the Sioux, who came to me to put in a brief account of a comrade who was very dear to him, and it shall be done now.

James White was his name, a man little known east of the Missouri, but the plains he was "Buffalo Bill's" shadow. He had come to the country to fight for the Sioux, in the Platte valley, in 1871, when he came into a house with a horse and a small introduction that he was a friend of Cody's.

"On many a long day's march after that of the column, and I got to know him well. A simple minded, gentler frontiersman never lived. He was modest and courtesy combined, conspicuous mainly because of two or three things which set him apart from the class—he never drank, I never heard him swear, and no man ever heard him curse.

"For years he had been Cody's faithful follower, half servant, half partner." He was Bill's "Iulus Achates," Bill was his adoption. They had been boyish together, and the spirit of exuberant youth was simply intensified in the man. He copied Bill's dress, his gait, his carriage, his speech—every thing he could copy.

"Poor, honest hearted 'Chips'! His story was a brief one after we had launched out from where Cody left us, and we were despatched for Terry. 'Chips' remained in his capacity as scout, though he seemed sorry to miss his 'pardon.'

"It was just two weeks after that we struck the Sioux at Slim Butte. As the head of our column jogged in among the hills, we were ordered to stop and keep on down to face the bluffs to the south, and Miles pointed to a ravine opening out into the village, with the warning: 'Look out for that gully. There are Indians hidden in there, and they've knocked over some of my men.'

"Everybody was too busy just then to pay much attention to that or to three Indians who had been captured by the Indians.

"They fell back, but 'Buffalo Bill,' as they had nicknamed Miles, kept up the pursuit persistently, even with frost bitten troops, and eventually John Bruguier, a half breed and very gallant scout with the command, who got the command at the head of the line with Crazy Horse, convinced the wily chief that Miles meant what he said. ' Surrender and go to the agency or I will attack you every day and keep you awake at night.'

This was finally consented to, and Crazy Horse was made to accept Miles' terms, and the Indians were given a term of grace to get out of the country, while he and 2,000 of his warriors surrendered at the Red Cloud and Spotted Tail agencies, and 500 Cheyenne under White Bull, Two Moons and Hump surrendered at the Tongue river post.

wounded Indians in a hole. We were sure of getting them, and, accordingly, we made a hole of timbers where they could warn stragglers away from its front, we formed line along the south and west of the captured village and got everything ready to resist the attack we knew they would soon make in full force.

"The Indian soldiers got permission to go over and join in, while the rest of us were hungrily hunting about for something to eat. The next thing we heard was a volley from the ravine and saw the scouts and packers scattering for cover. One soldier held his ground and it became apparent that not one or two but a dozen Indians were crouching somewhere in that narrow gorge, and the move to get them out assumed proportions. Lieutenant Clark of General Crook's staff sprang into the entrance, carbine in hand, and a score of cavalrymen followed him. The regiments and others went cautiously along either bank, peering warily into the cave-like darkness at the head. A squad of newspaper correspondents, led by that reckless Hibernian Finerty of the Chicago Times, came tearing over, perched on the shoulders of the packers, and as a second volley came from the concealed fox, and three more of their assailants dropped bleeding in their tracks. Now our people were fairly aroused, and officers and men by dozen sprang to the scene. The misty atmosphere had those redskins. Just at this moment I was running over from the western side I caught sight of 'Chips' on the opposite crest. All alone he was cautiously making his way on hands and knees toward the head of the ravine, and, as the soldiers drew up upon the Indians beneath. As yet he was protected from their fire by the bank itself, his lean form distinctly outlined against the eastern sky. He reached a stunted tree that grew on the very edge of the gorge, and there he halted, brought his rifle to his shoulder, and, as he raised it to aim at him and then raised himself slowly to his feet, lifted his head high and higher as he peered over. Suddenly a quick, eager light shone in his eye, a sharp movement of his rifle as though he were about to raise it to the shoulder, when a white plume of smoke shot through his eye, 'Oh, my God, boys—goodby, Bill!' plunged heavily forward on his face down the slope, shot through the brain.

"Two minutes more what Indians were left alive were prisoners and the costly experience was at an end.

"He buried poor 'Chips' in the deep ravine with our other dead, and no scout was more universally mourned than 'Buffalo Bill's' follower and devoted friend, Jim White."

"I will let General Charles King, who was present, tell the story, which he has done in his history, "Campaigning With Crook."

"This time it is not my purpose to

a half breed and very gallant scout with the command, who got the command at the head of the line with Crazy Horse, convinced the wily chief that Miles meant what he said. ' Surrender and go to the agency or I will attack you every day and keep you awake at night.'

This was finally consented to, and Crazy Horse was made to accept Miles' terms, and the Indians were given a term of grace to get out of the country, while he and 2,000 of his warriors surrendered at the Red Cloud and Spotted Tail agencies, and 500 Cheyenne under White Bull, Two Moons and Hump surrendered at the Tongue river post.

Crazy Horse fretted under the restraint of Camp Robinson, and, informed of the Indians' desire to leave the agency with some of the worst of the disaffected, it was thought best to arrest him. This brought about a fight, in which he was mortally wounded and died, smiting defiantly the white man.

The Cheyenne who surrendered to Miles were treated by him in such a manner as to indicate that he obviously gained their affection and from among them enlisted a corps, like the old Pioneers on the Platte, as scouts.

Miles' winter campaign, in short, was effective. The next day found him to be the most popular general in the country, and his influence was intense. A month afterward Frank Baldwin and the troops under Miles overtook and hammered old Bull on two occasions and made it so warm for him in such a cold climate that he took refuge over the

Canadian border. General Miles even made application for permission from the two governments to follow him to a finish, but for some reason the higher authorities did not permit it. Sitting Bull's influence had always been ably seconded by Gull as a fighter, and here he came to my aid, and the "knows" recommended Gull as one of the bravest and greatest of fighting men that history has produced, white or red. On one occasion, in a fight with the troops, he was shot down and rolled over by the cavalry, and it is stated that an infantry soldier, in the spirit of the Indian, who had come to assure his death, drove his bayonet clean through his body and left it there, actually pinning him to the ground. His death seemed assured. Afterward a rainstorm came up, which relieved him, and he eventually crawled off to the cover and lived to record the amazing line in the Custer and Reno fight. Years after I saw the evidence of the wound in his stomach.

This time it is not my purpose to write of "Buffalo Bill" but for him another whom I've not yet named.

That Indian was Charles King, of the Sioux, who had come to the country to fight for the Sioux, in the Platte valley, in 1871, when he came into a house with a horse and a small introduction that he was a friend of Cody's.

"On many a long day's march after that of the column, and I got to know him well. A simple minded, gentler frontiersman never lived. He was modest and courtesy combined, conspicuous mainly because of two or three things which set him apart from the class—he never drank, I never heard him swear, and no man ever heard him curse.

"For years he had been Cody's faithful follower, half servant, half partner." He was Bill's "Iulus Achates,"

Bill was his adoption. They had been boyish together, and the spirit of exuberant youth was simply intensified in the man. He copied Bill's dress, his gait, his carriage, his speech—every thing he could copy.

"Poor, honest hearted 'Chips'! His story was a brief one after we had launched out from where Cody left us, and we were despatched for Terry.

'Chips' remained in his capacity as scout, though he seemed sorry to miss his 'pardon.'

"It was just two weeks after that we struck the Sioux at Slim Butte. As the head of our column jogged in among the hills, we were ordered to stop and keep on down to face the bluffs to the south, and Miles pointed to a ravine opening out into the village, with the warning: 'Look out for that gully.

There are Indians hidden in there, and they've knocked over some of my men.'

"Everybody was too busy just then to pay much attention to that or to three Indians who had been captured by the Indians.

"They fell back, but 'Buffalo Bill,'

as they had nicknamed Miles, kept up the pursuit persistently, even with frost bitten troops, and eventually John Bruguier,

a half breed and very gallant scout with the command, who got the command at the head of the line with Crazy Horse, convinced the wily chief that Miles meant what he said. ' Surrender and go to the agency or I will attack you every day and keep you awake at night.'

This was finally consented to, and Crazy Horse was made to accept Miles' terms, and the Indians were given a term of grace to get out of the country, while he and 2,000 of his warriors surrendered at the Red Cloud and Spotted Tail agencies, and 500 Cheyenne under White Bull, Two Moons and Hump surrendered at the Tongue river post.
